Technical Writer

---

What Do I Do?

- I am a technical writer in the bioresearch industry.
- My work consists of writing study reports and proposals for pre-clinical studies.

How Did I Get Here?

- Originally, I wanted to do research in aquatic biology. After struggling to find a permanent position, I looked into other options.
- I have always been a strong writer so I looked into combining that with science. After looking into several career paths, I decided on technical writing.

Why Do I Love It?

- The opportunities in technical writing are endless.
- I love to learn and it gives me the opportunity to learn something new every day.

What Helped Me Along the Way?

- Introspection: identifying strengths and weaknesses and figuring out what works best
- Opportunities: professional development, networking, school, etc.
